

BLIND LOVE.

An intensely interesting story by the Great Master of Fiction, will be published in the "Sunday World" as a Serial, beginning June 30.

WILKIE COLLINS,

"The World" has secured the exclusive rights to this new romance for North America. Newspapers desiring to share with us in the publication should address at once for terms "World Publication Department."

DISTANCED BY "THE EVENING WORLD."

In the grand race for popular favor THE EVENING WORLD distances all its competitors. Its circulation is about equal to all the other evening papers combined. Neither of its nearest two competitors has half as many, while the others are away out of sight in the rear. This is not brag nor bluster. It is demonstrated fact. We know whereof we affirm.

One hundred newboys, in ten of the newspaper selling centres of this city, testify that of the 12,501 papers sold by them daily, 5,782 are THE EVENING WORLD, while 2,711 was the figure of the next highest, and that the profits realized from sales of THE EVENING WORLD are $28.91, while upon its closest competitor the profits are less than half that amount.

THE EVENING WORLD is the people's favorite. The reasons for this are obvious. Its pages are the brightest and newiest of all the evening journals. It is progressive, independent and fearless. By its sale the newboys reap richest rewards, the purchaser gets more than his money's worth and advertisers reach more readers, twice over, than through any other medium.

Truly, greatest in everything that makes a newspaper a success is THE EVENING WORLD.

A BAD SHOWING FOR SPELLBINDERS.

The overwhelming defeat of the Prohibition amendment in Pennsylvania suggests the thought that it was also a Waterloo for the Spellbinders. The stump orators, who are pleased to call themselves Spellbinders, are never modest in attributing political results to the all-persuading power of their tongues. In times of political excitement, from thousands of platforms Spellbinders shriek their direful prophecies of the impending ruin that awaits the success of the other party. In dulcet tones they also sing the praises of anything and everything "our side" has done.

These Spellbinders are a self-adjustable lot. All victories are won by them; all defeats are attributable to blunders at headquarters. They are first to claim prizes in the division of the spoils and contemptuously frown upon the services of one who hasn't "stumped it."

In Pennsylvania's recent campaign, however, the Spellbinders swooped down upon the people and at every cross-roads in frenzied accents advocated the amendment. All the speech-making was for Prohibition, but the voting was mostly against it.

Do people, after all, read the papers, think for themselves and vote as they please, regardless of the strident-voiced stumpers? It is a solemn thought for the Spellbinders, but it is the undoubted fact.

ILLUMINATED CAMP.

Owing to the failure of Gov. Hill to approve the appropriation for lighting the State Camp of the militia-men by electricity our citizen soldier will be obliged to resort to the old-fashioned candle and lantern for illuminating purposes. While, of course, it is very pleasant to have things about a military camp as homelike as possible, yet it may do our soldiers no harm to taste the naturally incidental discomforts of camp life while in camp.

As compensation for the deprivation of the luxury of the electric light, let it be borne in mind by the gallant militia-men that the laurels won by military heroes have ever been garnered at the expense of personal comfort. The strategic movements of armies whose successful execution has routed opposing forces, captured citadels and won for the master minds who conceived them imperishable renown have not been planned amid surroundings of ease and in the dazzling light of gorgeous chandeliers, but in cheerless tents and by the flickering candle-light. War and discomfort go hand in hand, and in time of peace it is well to prepare for war.

She Agreed with Them.

From the Brooklyn Daily Eagle.
"I shall not marry Miss Crumley after all," announced young Bjerkins sadly. "Her family seems to oppose the match too much."
"Hang the family!" exclaimed a sympathizing friend. "Go in and win, Bjerkins, just the same. What do you care for the family's opinion so long as the girl is willing?"
"That's just it," exclaimed Bjerkins with more faith. "Miss Crumley seems to agree with them."

AHEAD OF ALL.

Conclusive Proof of "The Evening World's" Great Circulation.

One Hundred Newsboys Give the Figures of Their Total Sales.

More "Evening Worlds" Sold Than Its Two Nearest Competitors.

And Close to as Many as All the Other Afternoon Papers Taken Together.

The recent census of newspaper readers in 100 cars of the Elevated Railroad showed that THE EVENING WORLD is more widely read in this city than any two other evening newspapers published.

To put the matter to a final and conclusive test EVENING WORLD reporters have gone to ten central points in the city where newspapers are distributed in bulk and have got statements from the newboys as to the number of evening newspapers they sell daily.

The work has been done systematically, fairly and with care. Ten newboys, taken at haphazard, were interviewed at each of the ten centres, making 100 in all. Their names and addresses are given and their statements printed impartially.

The result confirms what before appeared as to THE EVENING WORLD's pre-eminence in the matter of circulation.

Out of the mouths of 100 witnesses it is established that THE EVENING WORLD is bought by more than twice as many people as its nearest competitor, that its circulation is more than that of its two nearest rivals combined, and that nearly as many EVENING WORLDs are sold as all the other afternoon papers taken together.

It also shows that the newboys make more money by selling EVENING WORLDs than by selling any two other afternoon papers.

A Waterloo at City Hall.

The newboys in the vicinity of the City Hall are an active lot and they all make neat sums of money at their employment. They are very enthusiastic over the way THE EVENING WORLD sells, and as one of them remarked: "DE EVENING WORLD is de home paper."

Little Jacob Clausky, a cripple, who lives with his parents at 317 E. 10th street, is a familiar figure in the composing rooms of all the big dailies.

He sells 70 EVENING WORLDs; 40 Evening Sun; 30 Daily News; 5 Mail and Express; 3 Telegraph; 2 Commercial Advertiser; 1 Graphic; 1 Evening World; 287 West street, sells: EVENING WORLD, 30; Evening Sun, 30;
